Let's Start!

Roses are Red and Violets are Blue ...

Learning Outcome

Describe events through a wider range of B1 language in both work and social contexts

Ask your partner:

- Why do you think some people feel uncomfortable with public displays of affection?
- What do you think of the traditional music in your country?
- Where would you go to listen to traditional music?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about manners, customs, and cultural items.
- I can talk about things I am supposed to do and things that are supposed to happen.
- I can express suggestions, necessity, and possibility.

Let's Explore!

Sally opens up to Vanessa about someone new!

* To "open up" means to share feelings with someone.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Sally: Vanessa, what are you doing for Valentine's Day?
- Vanessa: Things will be hectic at the restaurant, so I'll be there. Why? Are we supposed to do something?
- Sally: No, I'm supposed to have a date with somebody I met recently at a coffee shop. His name is Steve.
- Vanessa: You have to tell me more. Are you supposed to be spending Valentine's Day with him?
- Sally: I think so, but first I need some advice. I want to take things slow. Tell me what you think. Should I let him hold hands with me?
- Vanessa: If you aren't comfortable with it, you shouldn't do it.
- Sally: Yeah I'm not into showing affection publicly yet.
- Vanessa: You ought to be direct and tell him you need to take it really slow.
- Sally: That's true. I want to know about his last relationship and more about his values.
- Vanessa: You could tell him a bit about your own and maybe he will reveal more. You have to give him time to open up to you. Can you tell me what he's like?
- Sally: He's soft-spoken and polite. He's a musician who plays violin, harmonica and slide guitar in a bluegrass band. He is supposed to play this Saturday.
- Vanessa: Isn't that a real old style of American music? It's supposed to be fun to listen to. Maybe you could take me to a show at some point.
- Sally: I am supposed to see his band this Saturday. We could go together.
- Vanessa: Only if you think it's a good idea. It might be a lot of fun. I'd love to hear some traditional American numbers!

Learning Points

Modals for suggestions, necessity, and possibility

Modals are auxiliary verbs used to make suggestions, express necessity or show possibility. In the simple present, you need a modal plus the base form of the main verb.

Type of Modal	Example
Modals of Suggestion	If you aren't comfortable with it, you shouldn't do it. You could tell him a bit about your own and maybe he will reveal more. You ought to be direct and tell him you need to take it really slow.
Modals of Necessity	You have to give him time to open up to you.
Modals of Possibility	It might be a lot of fun.

Learning Points

To Be Supposed To

You use the structure to be supposed to when you want to talk about expectations, obligations or arrangements.

You can use to be supposed to to talk about situations in the past, present or future.

The structure is:

Subject + to be + supposed to + verb

I'm supposed to have a date with someone I met recently at a coffee shop.

Pronunciation tip

When you say be supposed to, you link the /d/ and /t/ sounds together.

Like this:

Be suppose_to

Note: To use suppose to in the past put the be verb in the past tense:

Subject + was/were + supposed to + verb

I was supposed to have a date with someone I met recently.

Examples:

- I'm supposed to have a date with someone I met recently at a coffee shop.
- Are you supposed to be spending Valentine's Day with him?
- He is supposed to play this Saturday.
- It's supposed to be fun to listen to.
- I am supposed to see his band this Saturday.
