Let's Start!

What should I wear?

Learning Outcome

Describe events through a wider range of B1 language in both work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- How often do you ask your friends for advice on what to wear?
- What's your favorite way of dressing?
- Is it important that you dress in style? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about socializing, fashion and clothes in the past or in the present.
- I can show I understand someone's feelings or situation.
- I can encourage agreement.

Let's Explore!

Peter trusts Sally and Vanessa's clothing expertise.*

* "Expertise" means knowledge of a specific subject.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Peter: Hey guys, listen up! I'm going to a film festival tonight! This jacket is pretty decent, don't you think?
- Sally: It's a gorgeous jacket! You must be excited about going to the festival. What are you seeing?
- Vanessa: Who are you going with?
- Peter: It's none of your business! I trust your clothing expertise and hope you will lead me in the right direction.
- Sally: Okay. Don't be so defensive! How about your footwear?
- Vanessa: Wouldn't you like to wear those new brogue shoes you bought a while back?
- Peter: You mean the ones I wore to the party?
- Vanessa: Yes. Shouldn't you also wear those lightweight wool pants?
- Peter: Yes. Perfect! I'm all set then. Thanks.
- Sally: Hold your horses! You must be feeling anxious or something. Aren't we going for coffee?
- Vanessa: The last time you acted so skittish, you had a date.
- Sally: It's okay V, let's let him keep it to himself. You must be feeling scrutinized, right Peter?
- Peter: Just leave me be and I'll fill you in tomorrow.
- Vanessa: I get it. Sometimes we all need a little privacy in matters of the heart.
- Peter: Oh Vanessa, don't be so facetious! You must be feeling left out. Remember I told you about everything that happened last time? I didn't leave anything out.
- Sally: You did. And didn't we ask him about a million questions?
- Vanessa: You're right, Sally! You must be feeling pressured, Peter!

Let's Practice!

Peter and Vanessa have so many different feelings!

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Correct the mistakes.

1. Peter seems skity. He must be ansius for his date.
2. Vanessa is emotinated about going to the festival.
3. I realize Peter doesn't like to be scratinised.
4. Vanessa asks too many questions. She must be cuurius.
5. Peter is sleepy; he must be exhaust.

Let's Practice!

Then and now - what a difference!

Instructions: Put the words into the correct category.

- I wore the jacket last time.
- The fabric was so soft.
- Sally needed a new outfit.
- I love Peter's wool pants.
- Sally liked to wear little accessories.
- Now she loves to wear bigger accessories.
- Peter has a new girlfriend.
- I love to go out.

Learning Points

Negative Questions to Encourage Agreement

You use negative questions to confirm information you already know.

Look at these examples:

This jacket is pretty decent, don't you think? (You expect the person to say yes.)

Didn't you just buy a new pair of shoes the other day? (You expect the person to say yes.)*

Examples:

- Aren't we going for coffee?
- Didn't we ask him about a million questions?
- Wouldn't you like to wear those new brogue shoes you bought a while back?
- Shouldn't you also wear those lightweight wool pants?

Simple Present Tense and Simple Past Tense

You use the Simple Present tense to talk about activities you do regularly or habitually.

You use the Simple Past to talk about actions that were completed in the past.

Simple Present Tense (regular verbs) Third person singular/First person and Third Person plural	Simple Past Tense (regular verbs)	Simple Present Tense (regular verbs) Third person singular/First person and Third Person plural	Simple Past Tense (irregular verbs) Third person Singular and First person /Third Person plural

		am/is/are	was/were

Learning Points

- You use don't (do not) or doesn't (does not) to make a negative sentence in the Present tense.
- With the verb to be in Simple Present, you use am not, isn't (is not) or aren't (are not) depending on the pronoun.

I don't have a pet.

Mary doesn't work at night.

John and Susie aren't married.

- You use didn't (did not) to make a negative sentence in the Past tense.
- With the verb to be in Simple Past, you use wasn't (was not) or weren't (were not) depending on the pronoun.

Example:

Mary and Tom didn't come to the party.

They weren't invited.

Examples:

- I trust your clothing expertise and hope you will lead me in the right direction. (Simple Present)
- Don't be so defensive! (Simple Present)*
- Sometimes we all need a little privacy in matters of the heart. (Simple Present)
- Oh Vanessa, don't be so facetious! (Simple Present)
- You mean the ones I wore to the party? (Simple Past)
- The last time you acted so skittish, you had a date. (Simple Past)
- I told you about everything that happened last time. I didn't leave anything out. (Simple Past)
